

February Journal Prompts

- According to an old saying, money burns a hole in your pocket. What do you think this means?
- Which would your best friend rather get from you on Valentine's Day: a funny card, a serious card, or candy? How do you know?

- Pretend that when you got up this morning, your bed started talking to you. Tell what it said. Then explain what you did.

- Are you more like a scooter or a bicycle? Explain.
- What would you say to the president of the United States if he asked you to take a ride with him on Air Force One, his private plane?

- Would your friends say that you are a talker or a listener? Why?